1. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

2. Claims 40-41, 44-47, 68 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Edrich et al.

Edrich et al teaches a device for providing magnetic stimulation having a magnetic stimulation device for treating a first location (horizontal coil 11), what is considered to be "at least one conductor (vertical coil 12) that is in communication with a signal generator that would be needed to provide an electric current to the coil, which would carry the electrical signal to the second location. With regard to claims 44-46 these are merely directed to where on the body the device is placed and the Edrich et al device is clearly capable of being placed anywhere on the body.

3. Applicant's arguments filed 12/16/05 have been fully considered but they are not persuasive. Applicant argues that while Edrich admits reducing certain fields in certain locations, Edrich does not contemplate creating such fields for the purpose of reducing discomfort in a patient. The examiner's position is that such an argument is directed to the intended use of the device. Edrich clearly teaches reducing fields in certain locations which would inherently reduce any discomfort in the patient at the certain location since the field at that location would be minimized out and therefore provide no stimulation at that location. Further Edrich clearly discloses all of the claimed structure of a transcutaneous magnetic stimulation device for treating a first location (coil 11) an electrical signal generator for providing an electric signal and at least on conductor (coil 12) in communication with the electric signal generator.

4. Claims 1-39 are allowed.
5. Claims 42-43, 48-67 and 69-70 are objected to as being dependent upon a rejected base claim, but would be allowable if rewritten in independent form including all of the limitations of the base claim and any intervening claims.
6. THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the mailing date of this final action.
